WEATHER: Washington, Aug. 10.—For lower Michigan: Fair, preceded by local showers; southerly winds. FOR THE BETTER.

Nobody was more disappointed than the officers of the Horsemen's association that the weather made it imperative to postpone yesterday's races. In deciding to do so the officers were inspired by a desire to avoid disappointment to their patrons after assembling at the grounds and to insure perfect conditions in air and track for the contest between the world's two speediest and gamiest pacers. It was the consensus of opinion amongst the horsemen themselves that the track was unfit for such a trial as the one between Direct and Hal Pointer will be, if not for any race between the valuable horses entered in yesterday's events. The clearing weather seemed to be warrant for the belief in the minds of many that the races could have been run, but those in position to know the condition of the track were firmly convinced that the postponement was wise. The disappointment to the public will be atoned for today by an entarged program which includes some of the best performers in the trotting and pacing world. The assoshall be successful in overy respect and | voice of "sympathy." filled with attractions second to none ever before offered to patrons of the race truck.

TIN IS CHEAPER.

During the last fiscal year $21,222,663 were paid to one of the wealthiest syndicates of Great Britain for tin plate. It is the purpose of the republican party to keep that money, hereafter, at home manufacture, and tinware is being supplied cheaper than ever to the was more recklessly extravagant than consumer. The average retail price of any preceding one. the tin dipper has decreased from 124 cents in October, 1889, to 101 cents in September, 1892, of the tin milk pail from 464 cents to 304 cents, and of the tin milk pan from 184 cents to 154 cents. It is comparatively true that but a small proportion of the tm and terne plate, consumed in the United States, is manufactured by Americans. But it is the aim of the protective tariff to make it possible to increase the home supply until it shall equal the home demand. It can do it. It is chieftan, is a picturesque campaigner. doing it. It is the tariff of 2.2 cents per pound upon the foreign made article that makes this possible. The retail cost of tinware to the consumer has not increased. DEATH TO ANARCHY.

Anarchy is not so potent as it was a few years ago. It has lost character with the incendiary leaders themselves and its ultimate extinction is one of the encouraging probabilities of the future. The revolutionary adherents of anarchy have lost confidence in the men that have directed and controlled He organization. They no longer do their bidding, inspired by the belief in the rectitude of their cause and the honesty of their chieftans. From the hanging of Spies to the jalling of Berkman, each intermediate act of violence by the blinded devotees of anarchy, has been rewarded by the leaders with cowardly densals of their knowledge as to the outrages committed. Instead of asserting their leadership and vindieating their principles they have sought refuge in empty protestations of in- of Memphis hanged their chief execufact to the seture. The principal amarchist is Justus Schwab, a German saloonkooper, Johann Most has accupied much of public attention, but he is so pronouncedly an alarmist that he is not looked up to as a model type of anarchist, Schwab is the Alpha and Omega of anarchy in America. He long Grover will be wondering "where started a beer saloon in New York and | he is at."

Without a spark of sympathy for the work-ingmen, whose mokels he took to afford numself a life of indolence, he gathered around him a circle of discordant and incendiary spirits and inflamed their minds and bred murder in their hearts. His saloon was the cradle of anarchy and it may yet be its grave. Today the leaders are without money, bombs or dynamite. When Most shall die the cause will expire with him.

MUST BE IGNORANCE.

Replying to an inquiry, the Demo crat stated vesterday morning that the average amount of tin imported "during the ten months ending with July was a little over two and one-fourth million pounds each day." The Democrat doubtless has superior means for obtaining its information, but Bradstreets states that the total amount imported for the year ending June 30 was 516,827,840 pounds. This would make a daily average of 1,415,964 pounds, or a difference of nearly a million in The Democrat's estimate It is probable that The Democrat will say "THE HERALD is in error" again in view of this palpable misstatement of figures and its correction. It would be unkind to repeat that The Democrat lies about the tin-plate industry, and hence as a matter of charity it is but generous to say that its unscrutable mistakes are the products of ignor-

THAT actute champion of free silver, free trade and free rum, the Detroit Evening News, comes to the relief of the Democrat and declares that the latter deceived its readers to the extent of four days when it declared that only enough tin-plate is made in this country to supply the demand for two days. The News also says that the daily demand for tinplate is 2,100,000 pounds, while the Democrat declares that the daily importation exceeds the demand by 150,-000 pounds. These two distinguished authorities should compare notes before attempting to gorge the public with so-called facts. What the News and Democrat do not know about the tin-plate industry will make a book weighing almost as much as is represented by the discrepancy between their figures.

WELL may the democrats exclaim, Deliver us from our friends!" The Liverpool Journal of Commerce gives the whole thing away by saying, "The democratic party may rest assured that if English sympathy could carry the election of Grover Cleveland in November the White House would be theirs." It is expected that this articie, "sympathy," will be shipped across the ocean in a very substantial form. In fact, it is whispered around that the custodian of the democratic campaign ciation is determined that its races fund has already received a liberal in-

Judge Brown Discusses the Gerrymander

AND ITS EFFECT ON POLITICS

It Was Becoming Altogether Too Com mon and Had a Disastrous Effect on Political Morality.

Judge M. Brown of Big Rapids was a guest at the Morton yesterday. "Yes, sir, I'm down to see the races," he said to a reporter for THE HERALD. 'I'm not going to deny it either. Of ourse I didn't come down for the sole urpose of attending the races, but if t had not been for them I should not have come down. Big Rapids is very quiet-even in regard to politics. Mecosts county has a candidate for congress and has instructed for M. P. Gale. Willis Slosson of Reed City is also being boomed for the nomination and there are several other candidates. It is impossible to predict who will get the nomination; but all of them are men whose republicanism is beyond "Mecosta county is very well pleased with the senatorial reapportionment. It places Newaygo, Osceola and Mecosta counties in the district. They have always been associated together in the congressional and judicial districts and there is a sort of common understand-ing between them. I am glad to see the gerrymander knocked out, and am the gerrymander knocked out, and am glad to see that we have a supreme court capable of rising above partisanship and declaring what it believes to be right and just. I hope the gerrymander is killed for all time to come in this state, and I wish it were in every other state. It has become a crying evil and no party can lay the blame

Both Parties to Blame,

"Both parties have been accessories to these dishonest districting schemes for years, and have not hesitated to use their public authority to betray the people's trust and advance the cause of their own party. The legislative authority of the country has repeatedly been prostituted for partian aggrandizement, and the people were beinning to look upon gerrymandering as a legitimate political function. It has had a startling effect on the political morals of the people, and the Michigan supreme court struck a mighty blow in behalf of the cause of olitical purity when it declared that he redistricting bills were unconstitu-tional, and refused to allow such fraudulent legislation to masquerade under the guise of law. It was getting so that every new legislature took upon itself the task of redistricting the state, and there was no help for it. No matter what party was in power the districts of the state had to be changed and the consequences were not conducive to political morality. I sincerely believe that there is a growsincerely believe that there is a grow-ing tendency in favor of purer and more honest politics than ever before. While it is not to be expected that the time is near at hand when political parties will discuss measures from the sole standpoint of public good and not of partisan benefits, yet it is a hopeful sign of the times to see a tendency in sign of the times to see a tendency in that regard. The Michigan supreme court has shown itself to be a body worthy of the respect and confidence of the state."

Col. George P. Sanford of the State Democrat is at Sweet's. The colonel is one of the most prominent democratic politicians in Michigan, but he isn't working at it this trip. "I don't know who will get the nomination for gover-nor," he said to a reporter for THE HERALD. "Winans may be nominated. Morse's name may be urged, but he may not care for the nomination. He may prefer to be a candidate again for judge of the supreme court next spring. Judge Morse is a strong man. don't know whether Ellis will te in the race or not. He has given good service as attorney general, but his recent attitude toward the people's party may make some difference in the convention. Some think democracy ought to endorse the peo-ple's ticket; but all the course I can ee is to nominate a distinct ticket and fight it out. The special session hasn't hurt the party anyway, because the re-districting measure is so fair and equitable. Speaking for publication I should say the democratic party's chances for carrying Michigan are good.

What is your private opinion about the matter?" asked the reporter.
"Well, I don't care—well, my only opinion is the one for publication.'

Democrats are very much chagrined at the result of their administration of the house. They organized the house with the cry, "Down with the Billion Dollar Congress." Lost Their Cries. Democrats have been deprived of all their campaign cries as a result of their administration of the house, and their leaders are distressed. They are not leaders are distressed. They are not even certain that they can depend upon the solid south. There are ominous notes of discord from several of the southern states. The old line bourbon democrate of Alabama are even advocating a force bill in the state as the only means of securing honest elections and protecting the integrity of the ballot. The Congressional Record, which was suspended the other day for a time when the democrate crippled the government by their obstructive tactics, comes out bristling all over with compilations of figures which give it the appilations of figures which give it the appearance of a series of multiplication tables, which may repel the reader to whom statistics are not the chief aim in life. There is the flavor of the campaign about it. The editor of the Rec-ord has been impartial and the docu-ment would serve the purpose of either campaign committee.

Political Bankruptcy. Congressman Dingley of Maine has a very apt way of putting things, and his vigorous attacks are always feared by his opponents. The democratic house, Mr. Dingley finds, furnishes the most conspicuous illustrations of political bankruptcy that has been presented for more than twenty years. Taking the figures which Mr. Holman presents to the public with the evident purpose of endeavoring to mislead, Mr. Dingley shows that, on the admissions and premises of Mr. Holman, the actual expremises of Mr. Holman, the actual ex-cess of appropriations of 1893 over those of 1891, for all purposes outside of interest and reduction of public debt, is $49,922,141. Even deducting the increase of pension appropriation for 1892 over 1891, of which the democrats make so much, there still remains an increase of nearly twenty-eight million dollars over the appropriations of 1891. This represents the measure of economy of a republican and of a democratic house, and exposes the pretense of those who devised the phrase "billion dollar congress." Mr. Dingley concludes that under a democratic policy it is true that "man never is but always to be blessed." Moreover, he draws the curtain from the future and makes statements which have been excluded from the proclamations issued by Mr. Holman and Mr. Sayers.

Held Back for Effect. Mr. Dingley shows that hardly a dollar's appropriation has been made at this session for necessary public build-ings and lighthouses, and that nearly all the appropriations of the sort have been held back until after the election, and that there are bills now on the cal-endar involving nearly $12,000,000 expenditures for necessary public build-ings and lighthouses which will cer-tainly be passed at the next session of congress. Not only that, but the deficiencies of the second session in conse quence of inadequate appropriations made at this session for ordinary cur-rent objects will be larger than they have been for several years. More-over, Mr. Dingley thinks that it is probable that the appropriations of the next session of the present congress will be larger than those of the present ses-sion, notwithstanding there will be no river and harbor bill, not only for the reason that the deficiencies will be larger, and that the appropriations for public buildings and lighthouses held back at this session must come in then, but also for the reason that the present congress had adopted the policy of withholding the actual appropriations at this session for building fortificaimprovements which have been author. ized, and given instead to public officers the right to enter into contracts for which the next session of congress must begin to provide.

Created a Mortga Mr. Holman has very sharply con-cealed from the public all knowledge of this fact. Yet it is a fact that the Lieut. Grant S. Bennett of Company C, Kalamazoo, adjutant of the Second hattalion; Sergt. Herman Wyland of Company F. Grand Haven, sergeant major of the First battalion; Sergt. H. Lee Munger of Company C, Kalama-zoo, sergeant major of the Second bat-talion; Henry Strong, Company E, and Herman Kutsche, Company E, buglers for the First and Second battalions re-apectively. so-called reform bouse has mortgaged the future of the country, and that it will be necessary to make very large appropriations at the next session to pay for the obligations which the present house has assumed under cover.
This plan was resorted to in order not to appear to have made the appropriations and to have incurred the expenditures which they actually did. Mr. Holman conceals this from his public statement, which is designed for camcorps, which will be composed of a special detail of two men from each company. paign use, but he is inconsiderate enough to make the admission in open debate early in the session, when he was endeavoring to prevent the democrats from assuming these obligations.
At that time, referring to the exposure of this trick which had been made by General Cogswell of Massachusetts. Mr. Holman said:

"The gentleman from Massachusetta Mr. Cogswell, the other day could probably be condemned for saying we are hiding appropriations in the bill—hiding them by mortgaging the future with contracts to be hereafter executed instead of an open appropriation of the money at once. Gentlemen, I reiterate that if this bill be comes a law nearly $75,000,000 will have been fastened upon your treasury, which does not appear upon the tace of your appropriation bills, but muct be appropriated in the early future."

Extravagance Proces. Yet that bill was passed, and the blanket mortgage of $75,000,000 which Mr. Holman spoke about has been placed upon the future as assets of the treasury. That fact is omitted from Mr. Holman's campaign document.

WAS A GAME FIGHT Kid Collier Defeated by Sam

Manning

IN A FIVE ROUND CONTEST

Were Both Game and the Fighting Was Lively.

The little room in the rear of Tom O'Donnell's saloon on Waterion s'reet was the scene of a prim fight last night that rivaled the boats that the old timers tell about. The room was well filled with spectators, some of them prominent citizens, lawyers and mem-bers of the sporting fraternity. At 10:45 Referes Silvers called time and "Kid" Colher, a lad who tipa;the scales at eighty pounds stepped into the ring. He was followed by Maccaroni, the dago "champion." The dago was leary of his opponent from the go in, and he received the worst of it. After the second round the dago took off the gloves and with the remark, "Me no longer champion," left the remark.

Then came the event of the evening, a five round bout between Sam Manning, who weighed in at seventy pounds, the champion "paper weight" of the world, and "Kia," Collier, the youngster who had just bested the peanut vender, Colher, weighed eighty pounds when the fight commenced.

just as time was called.

The second was but a repetition of the first, Manaing forcing the fighting and showing his ability to open a way with his right and following his ad-vantage with the adroit use of his left. Time was called before many blows were struck. Manning had the vantage in this round. In the next round both were cautious and next round both were cautious and followed each other around the ring waiting for an opening and sparring adroitly. Then Manning found his opening, landed on his opponent's neck and followed his advantage with an upper out with his left. The fighters then clinched and kindness be received a tap in the eye from Manning, who was getting the bestof it. The rest of the round was smiling and went to business without any peliminary sparring. Both fought hard and honors were about even. Many body blows were exchanged, but no blood drawn. Both received an equal share of the blows that were flying.

SPORTSMEN

Will find the GOLD MEDAL CAMP FURNITURE the best of the kind in the market-good, neat, durable and portable. Gold Medal Camp Chairs are easy to rest in, easy to carry, easily folded up and $1.00 easily pays for them-not any more troublesome to carry than on umbrella, as they fold into a space three inches square, three feet long. The Gold Medal Camp Stools are not quite as elaborate as the chairs, but they are strong, neat and serviceable and cost but 50c. We have a cheaper grade for 25c, but think that the difference in money value is more than made up for by the greater durability of the Gold Medal. Camp Tables form a necessary part of the outfit of a camping party, and as the Gold Medal furnishes you with a good, substantial table, three feet two inches by two feet three inches when open, and which can be folded into a compass five inches by seven inches by three feet, you can readily see its desirability. We are selling this table at $3.00, and it is well worth it. Last but by no means least on the list is the Gold Medal Camp Bed. Campers know how uncomfortable it is, trying to find the soft side of a pine board, and also how much of their rest they are robbed of in so doing. They will appreciate this bed, for none are more comfortable, none more portable, none so thoroughly good in every respect. When you have all these qualities in a bed that takes up no more room when folded, than four inches by five inches by three feet and yet, when opened for use, fills a space in the world six feet two inches by two feet four inches, we think you will agree with us that the acme of perfection in Camp Beds has been reached by the Gold Medal.
